Professional Standards Committee (PSC) – Subcommittee members

The Professional Standards Committee (PSC) prepares PEO practice standards and guidelines, and examines professional practice issues. This Committee forms subcommittees of subject matter experts to prepare PEO practice standards and guidelines. Each subcommittee is directed by the PSC to carry out work described in terms of reference. Currently, there is one subcommittee seeking members:

- Guideline for Performance Audits and Reserve Fund Studies for Condominiums Subcommittee.

General duties and responsibilities:

A member of a subcommittee of the Professional Standards Committee shall be qualified:

- To review, recommend and provide advice to Professional Standards Committee with respect to establishing and maintaining standards of practice in a specific area of professional engineering.
- To make recommendations on best practices for dealing with expectations of employers, clients and the public regarding the provision of professional engineering services.
- Prepare and review drafts of guideline with special regard for describing in clear language the roles, responsibilities, and acceptable conduct for professional engineers providing services covered by the guideline.

Specific skills and qualifications required:

- Licensed Professional Engineer in good standing.
- Demonstrated professional engineering experience at intermediate or senior levels in their field of practice.
- Knowledge of the Professional Engineers Act, Regulation 941/90 and Regulation 260/08 would be beneficial.
- Specific knowledge of the issues referred to in the Terms of Reference for the above mentioned subcommittee to the practitioner.

Time commitment:

Normally, the PSC subcommittees have one or two 3-hour meetings a month for several months scheduled at discretion of the chair with input from the members. Subcommittee members will be expected to devote 2-5 hours between meetings preparing, editing, reviewing and commenting on guideline drafts.
