PEO COUNCILLOR SHARES HIS INSIGHT ON THE VALUE OF THE GLP

This week's interview is with PEO Eastern Region Councillor Randy Walker, P.Eng.

Eastern Region Councillor Randy Walker, P.Eng.

1. What is your experience dealing with the political process?

My dealings with the political process are at the municipal and provincial levels. Whether I'm trying to get a project some provincial funding for my company, reviewing regulations with government departments or asking MPPs to attend local PEO events.

I believe that it takes open dialogue and channels of communication to accomplish anything of value with government.

2. Why did you get interested in government liaison activities at PEO?

My interest in joining the Government Liaison Program was to expand my Chapter's (Quinte) and my engagement.

This would be done through meeting more MPPs from other areas. The MPPs in my Chapter's now know me by name. Of course this doesn't always translate to larger regions.

3. What do you think the biggest challenges are of the GLP?

The biggest challenge I have always seen is PEO wielding enough influence to be able to make changes with other groups. The challenge is getting PEO to have a louder voice.

4. What do you think the biggest opportunities are for the GLP?

The biggest opportunity I see is using the close relationship PEO has with the Attorney General to expand influence to all MPPs. We need to make use of our existing relationships to spread a message to the rest of the Ontario government that PEO is a professional group that can be trusted.

I would also like to see PEO or a subset (e.g. Engineers Canada or OSPE) be asked to attend government committee meetings, so that engineers can be part of the conversation and can influence change from the beginning. This is a huge commitment for the entire engineering community to step up to the plate.

PEO regulates engineers and governments make regulations. Engineers need to be involved in every step of the process, so that both groups have the power to accomplish their respective regulatory tasks.

With the addition of COVID-19, the normal channels of communication are different. We need to create new methods of having dialogue stay alive and well.

I would like to see more licence holders, even those not heavily involved with the GLP, get to know their local MPPs-so that we can all have a voice.
